

Robert Smither

Coaching Profile

Robert Smither
Hogan Coaching Network

Background

For more than 30 years, Robert Smither has helped organizations identify, hire, and develop the most talented employees. At Rollins College, Bob served as dean of arts and sciences, dean of the Hamilton Holt School (an evening studies program), and member of the Rollins Consulting Group. He also helped establish Rollins College's master of human resources program.

Bob is the author or co-author of 12 books on organizational psychology, personality, and finance, including The Psychology of Work and Human Performance and Organization Development: Strategies for Changing Environments. Bob is also co-author with Robert Hogan of Personality: Theories and Applications; he worked with Dr. Hogan on the first version of the Hogan Personality Inventory (HPI).

Professional experience

President, Athanor Consulting

Dean of Arts & Sciences and Dean of Evening Studies, Rollins College

Principal, Florida Institute of Professional Studies

Member, Rollins Consulting Group

Program Analyst, Cuban-Haitian Task Force, U.S. Department of State

Job Developer, Indochinese Training Project, San Francisco Community College

Education and Certifications

PhD, Personality Psychology, Johns Hopkins University

MA, Educational Psychology, San Francisco State University

BA, Political Science and East Asian Languages and Literatures, Indiana University

Client experience

AT&T, Cleveland Clinic, Coca-Cola, Darden Restaurants, Fannie Mae, Fidelity Investments, Hilton Hotels & Resorts, John Deere, Petco, Raytheon, UnitedHealth, Universal Studios, US Army, US Navy, Walt Disney World

Executive Coaching

Leadership Development

Individual Assessment

360 Surveys and Feedback

Organization Development

Organizational Effectiveness